History of Winemaking in Egypt

Winemaking has existed in Egypt since the time of the ancient Egyptians. Recent discoveries have revealed that wine was used at that time as a drink and as a medicine.

Evidence of the presence of wine in early Egyptian civilizations can be found in scenes painted on pottery and on tombs, showing workers harvesting grapes and wine being poured from ceramic vases into saucers. Recently traces of wine were discovered deep inside the tomb of one of the first Pharaohs, Scorpion I.

The tradition of winemaking continued in Egypt long after the early civilization. The Greeks and the Romans were both known for making wine from the vast vineyards that existed all along the fertile Nile Valley.
